Pight Between Rival Pire Companies.

PRILADELPHIA, P.A., July 10.—The western part of the city was kept in an uproar last night by riotous fremen. The hose carriage of the Goodwill Company was thrown futo Schuyikill river by the Philadelphia Engine Company after a small fire. Subsequently, for the purpose of drawing the Philadelphia company near the premises of the Good Will, the large flouring mill of Rowland & Evwin, conner of Broad and Eace streets, was set on fire. It was enlirely destroyed, with some of the surrounding property. Loss heavy and no meurace. The carriage of the Good Will was fashed out of the river and the members stracked by Philadelphia Company as they were taking it home. Few arrests.

rear of France, has for hundreds of year rendered the scepter whelded at Madria a weapon of the first importance in every European contest. When Charles II, the last of the Spanish Hapsburgs, died in 1700, the effort to place Pentur of Anjob, grandson of Louis XIV, upon the throng of Spain, in accordance with the will de Charles, involved France for thireen years in the bloody "War of the Spanish Succession," in which England, Holland, and Germany opposed Pailler in behalf of a Prince of the Austrias handly. Anjoin thing like a union of the military proves of the Latin races is decisive of every England. The contest, and hence the desperate and costly effort of Narolson I to fix his brother Joseph on the Spanish throne.

The question whether Europe is on the eve of another war over the Spanish throne. The question whether Europe is on the eve of another war over the Spanish erows, as a result of the Atlantic, because of its influence of the Atlantic, because of its influence of those monster-meetings of this country.

The territorial expansion and political exalisation of Prussis, a rone, and triumphs to be an experiment of the Chinese in the state of the Atlantic, because of its influence of those monster-meetings of workingmen which are beginning to be left in the East, and, knowing that Chinese in the store of the state of the chinese to labor for espital at low workingmen which are beginning to be left in the East, and, knowing that Chinese in the production of the production of the France has produced to the country and self workingmen which are beginning to be attended to the production of the p set ableze the warlike ardor of the French. On the other hand Prussia seems to feel instinctively that her recent aggrandizement has made France her foe, and that something must be done to secure her acquisitions. After procuring the election of one kinsman of his king as Prince of Roumanis in the East, Bismanch has secretly intrigued for the election of a Prussian prince, LEOFOLD of Hohenzollern, to the throne of Spain, expecting doubtless to overreach the French Emperor by conterring a crown upon one who is a kinsman of the latter and a Catholic, but still a Prussian.

EUGENIE HONTENSE, granddaughter of the King of Bayaria, daughter of EUGENSE and namesake of Louis Natoleon's mother, was married to the Prince of Hohenzollern who ruled over the Rhenish provinces of Hechingen and Signariagen. This Hohenzollern and Signariagen. This Hohenzollern and Signariagen. This Hohenzollern tamily is a Catholic branch of that to which King William of Prussia belongs. Its it des and percogatives were transferred to the Prussian throne in 1846, but Prince of Hohenzollern tamily is a Catholic branch of that to which King William of Prussia belongs. doubt that all the power of France will be exerted to save his dynasty and protect the political influence of the French Gov-ernment from that dauger in the rear which is so apparent in this movement. It even foreshadows the future union of Spain and Portugal under the influence of a Prussan family whose national feeling and zeal for German unity not even religious differences could ever allenate.

The tavorable reception accorded to the nitimatum of France by the public voice of Europe, and the certainty of war as a consequence of the election of Leorona, may cause his rejection by the Cortes; but will even that prevent war? The answer of Prussis evading theresponsibility for Leorona's candidature does not seem to allay in the least the warlike feeling aroused in France. The humiliation of Prussis by some sort of deleat, diplomatic or military, is demanded, and in European politics there are always old grievances and discontents and complicated questions of timatum of France by the public voice of

The Chinese Labor Question. The introduction of John Chinamar nto California years ago created a race feeling and a labor excitement which the followers of SUMNER combated with a profuse display of humanitarian logic and followers of SUMNEE combated with a profuse display of humanitarian logic and philosophy. To yield the Chinaman as a sacrifice to the odious prejudices of race and color was to abandon the broad platform constructed for the elevation of the beloved protege from Africa. This could never be tolerated as long as strength re-zollern branch of the royal family, was born in 1835, was married to a sister of the King of Portugal in 1861, and is now the father of three sons. Besides the BEAUHANAIS blood in his velns, he is the grandson of the Princess Marie Anyonnerte Musar, the husband of Carollus Bonarare.

The theory that a good Catholic thus related to the reigning monarchs on either side of Spain would be acceptable to the Spanish people, and could not be objected to by G Bonarawie was very plausible. But theright of France to choose her own monarch is, to Napoleonic ideas, a very different thing from the right of Spain to do likewise; and no tie of blood or affection has ever been permitted to interfere with the dynastic interests of the Bonararte family as bound up in the government and the glory of France. The Emperor wants no cousin crowned at Madrid, because he is too wise to repeat the mistake of his uncle, even it he had a plaust Joseph to begin with, and there is now no doubt that all the power of France will be done of the Chines as the editor of the Chines as the editor of the Chines and the Bonaratte family as bound up in the government itself, if the will swamp the government itself, if the shartet theories of the Radical party are carried out. The Chinese as a race are frugal, industrious, and parsimonious. Coming huther for gain in large numbers, bringing their own society, language, and religion with them, they find such greater and will soon be so strong in numbers that the desire to return will agradually disappear. Neither time nor locality has ever changed them, and the requent massacres of Christians in Chine, and the requent massacres of natives which have made that land the bloodiest on earth, admonish us of the troubles in the requent massacres of the Bonaratte family as bound up in the government the form of the Chinese.

The talk about constitutional difficulties in the way of immigration is all turned by the suggestion of a gentleman, long a resident of the chinese.

The talk about constitutional difficult exact reciprosity between this country and China. As the latter only admit our citi-zens in thirteen ports, and restricts their business to those places, we can, under the treaty, restrict Chinese immigration and labor in this country the moment it becomes necessary. When it shall be necessary, is a question time only can solve. The Chinese government is jealous of all emigration from its borders, and those most familiar with the Chinese people declare that a dangerous irruption from that quarter is not to be expected. But if these declarations should prove untrue, there is little doubt that the American people, in spite of Radical theories, will find or make some way to protect our civilization from a

"Prec Cuba."

The Cuban question has been "growing beautafully less and small by degrees" until it is sedem heard of except in some spannodic mass meeting (with a lottery for the benefit of the "patriots"), at which sundry Cuban liberators air their uniforms and elequence. This will never do. If the various Cuban "patriots," who are sympathising with all of their might in New York and else where, but managing to keep put of the reach of Spanish lead, will go to Cuba and shoulder their munkets, "Free Cuba" will cease to be the byes word it is fast becoming. Sympathy, speeches and lotteries are all well enough in their way, but there is great virtue in powder and bail, to say nothing of the bayonet.

The Most Powerful Vegetable Al-terative Yet Discovered. be true. The people talk of bad blood as the cause of many diseases, and, like many popular opinions, this of bad blood is founded in truth. The symptoms of bad blood are usually quite plain—bad digestion causes imperfect nutrition, and consequently the circulation is feeble, the soft tissues lose their tone and elasticity, and the tongue becomes pale, broad, and frequently covered with a pasty, white coat. This condition soon shows itself in roughness of the akin, then in eruptive and ulcerative diseases, and, when long continued, results in serious lesions of the brain, liver, lungs, or urinary apparatus. Much, very much, suffering is caused by impure blood. It is estimated by some that one-fifth of the human family are affected with scrofula in some form. When the blood is ceipte at all ports to be now.

The Little Eagles start on their week's jaunt this morning, first p'aying the Lexingtons at Lexington this afternoon. The Eagles is a junior ciub, and unquestionably one of the best in the country. Its members comprise the best material our city can furnish, and we can commend the young gentlemen as the commend the young gentlemen as the commend the young gentlemen as the property of the people in the places they visit. Among the Eagles are sons of two prominent ex-Judges of this city (Bodley and Muir), grandsons of the eminent Chapcellor Walworth, of Hon. Chap S. Todd, and of Hon. Wm. Graves, and sons of some of our best and most honored citizens. They will, we can promise, prove themselves by their bearing on this excursion in very way worthy of their honored ancestry. We will publish daily reports of their games, and wish the record may all the time be on the right side.

The Concert.

On Wednesday night, at Welsiger Hail, Mr. Henry Farmer, the popular flatist, will give a grand vocal and instrumental concert in which he will be assisted by Signorita Filomeno, the pinnist and violinist; Signor Salcedo, the corneta-piston plaver, and the best ageal talent in the city. Hotel Threves,

About two o'clock yesterday morning Officer Ovington, while making his rounds, discovered two suspicious-looking men, named George Bainbridge and Bichard Edwards, emerging from a narrow alley-way leading from the street into the rear of the Metropolitian Hotel, on Market treet, between Second and Third, and, as their movements indicated that all was not right on their part, he followed them until he met Officers Daly and Winn, and the three officers arrested them. After taking the men to police station No. 3, the officers returned to the hotel, where they found doorways open and papers belonging to guests of the hotal scataged through the hallways, indicating that their pockst-books had been robbed, which proved to be the case. Why Not Have Water Fountains?

ITo the Editor of the Courier-Journal.]

The City Council recently passed an act authorizing the giving out of contracts for laying eight miles of Nicolson pavement in the city, which will add greatly to its beauty. Now that this great improvement is to be pushed ahead during the remaining part of 1870, why could not the Council do something for the comfort of the citizens by establishing water fountains throughout the city? We have the best water works in the West, and as yet they have never been of benefit to the people in this respect. When the to the people in this respect. When the work is being accomplished. The pumps about the city are kept up by a special pump tax, which is good enoughlow they who use that kind of water but there are thousands of people in the city who cannot drink it at all since accustoming themselves to river water. No one can doubt that public water fountains will eventually superace the pump. Why Not Have Water Fountains?

He beardless face is far more childly the than that of Horace Greeley, and his countenance wears a smile as perpetual as the snows at the North Pole.

McCreery professes to be a great agriculturist, but he has his own theory, like most great men, on this so on every other subject. The other day, in conversation with a genticman, he expressed the opinion that the native breed cattle of Kentucky are as good as the beat cattle farmers in the West. "Feed thought the same; give them the same care," said the learned McCreery, "and our native breeds are as good as the best short-horned Durhams in the Bluegrass region. It's in the feeding," Now some person was injudicious enough to mention this conversation to Garrott Day s., Mr. McCreery's colleague. "Bahi" said Garrett, "what does he hanw of cattle, short-horned Durhams, or anything else? What Mow the does short making laws." Mr. Davis, it must be remembered, comes from the Bluegrass region himself, and his criticism on his colleague ty, therefore, entitled to some consideration.
